

process for designers

Our process is very much like what you're probably already accustomed to with your offset printing company. When you have a job that you feel is well suited for letterpress, email or call us with the specifications. We will then email you an estimate for the project. Once you hand your files off to us, the normal production time is two to three weeks.

When sending your specifications, please be sure to include the following information:

- quantity: We are able to accommodate quantities of 50 and up. If you have a need for a smaller quantity, please call us to discuss your project.
- paper: Our house stock is 100% cotton. Cotton papers such as the one this page is printed on are soft and take the impression of letterpress well. It is possible to print on almost any stock with varied depth of impression.
- size: Our maximum printable area is 10" x 15.5". If you have a need for a larger image area, please contact us to discuss your project.
- ink: Specify Pantone spot colors. We can also hand mix nearly any color, even if it's not in the Pantone rainbow.
- bleed: Does your design bleed off of any edges?
- press check: Let us know if you'd like to come in while your project is on press so that we can coordinate scheduling.
- finishing: Die cutting, scoring, perforating, folding, gluing, etc.
- delivery: Provide us with the recipient's address or opt to pick up.
